Why you're seeing Victoria transit buses in Kelowna

On Sunday 26 August the Kelowna Regional Transit System adds 40,000 service hours to the existing schedule.

The extra service ties in with why you may be seeing Victoria Regional Transit buses in Kelowna.

Jerry Dombowsky explains, "to accommodate the 40,000 extra service hours, the Kelowna Regional Transit System needs more buses. The buses we ordered aren't going to be ready in time, so we borrowed the buses from Victoria. That's the beauty of having a provincial fleet."

As soon as the brand new Nova buses arrive from Montreal, the Victoria buses will head home again.
